

- A medicine should be introduced at public expense if a company lowers its price
- The medicine should be made available at public expense, regardless of the price charged by the company
- The medicine should not be introduced with social funding